Resilience: Mapping a Journey to Promote Social and Emotional Competence (formerly Creating Your Journey Together)

Hours	12
Audience	All Early Childhood Professionals
Level	Intermediate
Competencies	Multi-Topic
Sponsoring Organization	Delaware Institute for Excellence in Early Childhood
Description	Research shows that resilience (having the ability to overcome challenges) allows children and adults to develop a greater sense of self-esteem, develop cognitively and emotionally, and continue moving forward in life. It is key to bouncing back from trauma and difficulty. The four part series examines practices that reduce challenging behaviors in children by embedding self-regulation, initiative and attachment into the curriculum, recognizing and building these skills that enhance children's social and emotional health. There are supports for working with families, and developing collaboration, conflict resolution skills, and reflective practice. The overarching goal is resilient children, families and staff. This workshop was created through a collaboration with the Devereux Foundation (creators of FLIP It! and Your Journey Together).

Description	Individuals who work with young children have a stressful job. It involves acute awareness of the children at all times, constantly role-modeling good behavior, and working with others in a fast-paced environment. This, coupled with the general tendency to put the needs of others before their own needs, can lead to easily triggered stress - both with others and for themselves. Email: Liz@freeandabel.com

Social and Emotional Development: Creating a Positive Classroom Environment
Hours	4
Audience	All Early Childhood Professionals
Level	Introductory
Competencies	Social Emotional
Sponsoring Organization	Allen Newsome
Description	Professionalism and guidance must be shown in creating a positive classroom environment. This is to promote an educational, positive and rewarding environment. If this isn't done, it would be very difficult for children to develop appropriate social and emotional skills in the classroom environment. Factors that may interrupt the development of social and emotional skills in the classroom are negative or inappropriate behavior of the children.

Trauma Webs 2: Relationships: A Sticky Situation Building a Trauma-Informed Connection

Hours	2
Audience	All Early Childhood Professionals
Level	Introductory
Competencies	Social Emotional
Sponsoring Organization	Dionne Patterson
Description	Relationships can be sticky indeed. Have you ever asked yourself why despite behavior modifications a child continues to display challenging behavior? It's not because they are beyond reproach. It is not necessarily because they have a diagnosis. Children of trauma have been harmed within the context of a relationship and so the repairs must be made within the context of a relationship. Until those repairs begin, the behavior remains. Often time along with mission of "operation fix it" we divulge so much energy into the outcome, that we forget the input. This class not only explains how experiences from trauma shape children's relationships. But it will also provide practical tools, strategies, and activities to support promote positive peer and adult interactions. Email: developer2014@gmail.com
